

Talented students win prizes in Artist of the Year 2011 contest

Five talented Havering Sixth Form College students were awarded prizes at the recent Havering Young Artist of the Year 2011 presentation.

Emily Price, Gifty Wilson, Laurence Few, James Robinson and Holly Lefevre were all successful in the borough-wide competition for 14 to 18-year-olds.

The College scooped five of the 12 prizes that were handed out. More than 70 pupils from Havering schools entered the contest.

Held at the Queen's Theatre, Hornchurch, the presentation was attended by students, parents, the Mayor and local dignitaries.

Emily Price, who studied A Level Textiles, BTEC Fashion & Clothing and General Studies, was awarded the Special Prize for her textiles work.

Gifty Wilson, who is studying A Levels in Art and Italian as well as BTEC Fashion & Clothing and General Studies, won 2nd prize in the 17 to 18-year-old category for her art piece.

Former Abbs Cross School student Laurence Few, won 2nd prize in the 14 to 16-year-old section, Holly Lefevre, also formerly of Abbs Cross School, was Highly Commended and ex-Gaynes School student James Robinson, was also Highly Commended for his artwork.

All media, colours and any subject whether 2D or 3D could be entered and all the work was exhibited in the Queen's Theatre foyer.

The competition was run by the London Borough of Havering and was sponsored by Seawhite of Brighton and www.pinkpig.info
