

Media students chosen to produce DVD for Havering Council

A team of Creative and Media Advanced Diploma students at Havering Sixth Form College won the opportunity to produce a DVD promoting Apprenticeships in Havering.

The group of seven students, calling themselves Team Apollo Productions, pitched their ideas to Havering Council and were chosen to create the seven-minute DVD which highlights the benefits of the Apprenticeships scheme on offer to learners in Havering.

The seven students - Bradley Fisher, James Edwards, Sam Webster, Daniel Mason, Jemma Hampton, Chijioke Nwachuku and Stephen Dukelow – are now busily editing footage taken at sites around Havering, including at Mercury House, the Town Hall, Quarles Campus and the premises of various employers in Havering.

They have also been interviewing apprentices and apprenticeship providers on camera.

Representatives from Havering Council (the client), and those people who have been interviewed for the DVD have all been impressed with the professionalism of the students.

The finished DVD will be viewed by local employers, pupils and students in schools and colleges and by parents of potential apprentices. It will form a key part and will be screened during the scheme launch during Apprenticeship Week, 7th-11th February 2011.
